First Day

"Yamaju Seishi, preserving the tradition of Japanese papermaking, beautifully narrates the essence of Washi paper into modern times. Their Nishijima Washi, crafted using traditional methods, has attained the highest standards and has even been offered as gifts to the Imperial Family. Visitors can immerse themselves in the art of Washi papermaking through hands-on experiences. Additionally, one can have their favorite photos printed on Washi paper, creating unforgettable memories.

The Tomitake Wind Cave is a natural monument formed by the eruption of Mount Fuji. Maintaining a constant temperature of around 3 degrees Celsius throughout the year, it features numerous large icicles. The spring water that flows from it, sourced from the underground streams of Mount Fuji, boasts remarkable clarity, drawing attention from around the world. It's a popular destination bustling with many foreign visitors, contributing to its status as part of the Mount Fuji World Heritage Site."

Second Day

Now, a popular spot in Atami, Izu, is Kinomiya Shrine. The enormous camphor tree within its grounds is truly awe-inspiring.

People visit here seeking good fortune, and it's also a popular spot for Instagram photoshoots. It's said that walking around the trunk once can extend your lifespan by one year.

After that, head to Hatsushima, just a 30-minute ferry ride from Atami Harbor, where you can indulge in a seafood barbecue and leisurely enjoy the sea breeze.

This is the essence of sightseeing in Izu!

Atami Ginza Shopping Street is currently the most popular in Izu, bustling with tourists. While retaining a retro atmosphere, it offers a variety of cafes and sweets made from local ingredients, all of which are highly popular. You can savor Atami's gourmet cuisine here.
